TEACHING

AREAS: Torts; First Amendment; Appellate Advocacy and Practice; Gender and the Law; Feminist Jurisprudence; Reproductive Rights and Reproductive Justice

While most of my teaching has been in the law school, I have also taught undergraduate classes in the American Pluralism general education curriculum, and I have taught graduate courses cross-listed with Sociology and Women's Studies. I have been a member of 4 Ph.D dissertation committees at the University at Buffalo; at Yale Law School I was the supervisor of one J.S.D. dissertation, and a committee member for two additional J.S.D. dissertations. I also supervised several L.L.M. theses.

LITIGATION AND LEGISLATIVE ACTIVITIES

I have handled two merits cases in the U.S. Supreme Court.

In Schenck v. Pro-Choice Network, 117 S.Ct. 855 (1997), I was lead counsel for plaintiffs/respondents, and I briefed and argued the case. I started this case in the U.S. District Court for the W.D.N.Y. in 1990, and served as lead counsel in all proceedings in the district court, as well as two Second Circuit appeals, including an en banc, and related contempt proceedings and appeals. The case involved an injunction setting locational limits on protest activities at women’s health clinics, and became a major First Amendment case in the U.S. Supreme Court that is referenced in many constitutional law casebooks and civil rights teaching materials.

In U.S. v. Burke, No. 91-42 (1991), a case involving the taxability of Title VII employment discrimination back-pay awards, I wrote the brief and was co-counsel with my father, who argued the case. This significant tax case has been included in many tax law casebooks and teaching materials.

In the U.S. Supreme Court I have also written several amicus curiae briefs, and have also written successful briefs in opposition to certiorari. I have also authored amicus briefs in state high courts on tort, products liability, and reproductive rights issues.

In addition to my U.S. Supreme Court work, I have briefed and argued numerous federal appeals in the 1st, 2nd, D.C., 6th, and 11th Circuits, on issues ranging from injunctions curtailing protest activity at women’s health clinics, employment discrimination, labor law, banking law, and federal criminal law.

I have appeared as an expert witness in court cases challenging, on state and federal constitutional grounds, tort damage cap laws. My expert witness role is based on my academic research, and has included affidavits as well as live testimony. These appearances range from Nova Scotia, Canada, to Florida, Maryland, Nevada, Kansas, Georgia, Missouri, Louisiana, and Illinois.

I have also provided legislative testimony to the House and Senate of the U.S. Congress, on issues including products liability reform and the impact on women, and on access to reproductive health clinics. I have also testified before several state legislative committees or administrative commissions on issues including tort reform, medical malpractice, gender equity, family and medical leave.

INVITED CONFERENCES, CLE PRESENTATIONS, and SPEAKING ENGAGEMENTS:

I have lectured by invitation on numerous occasions at conferences, faculty workshops, law schools in the U.S., Canada, Australia, New Zealand, Germany, Italy, and Turkey, and to lawyers' conferences and CLE programs, and medical conferences and medical student groups, on appellate practice and effective appellate advocacy, feminist theory, gender and legal education, torts and tort reform, scientific issues and proof of scientific causation in tort cases, labor law, sexual harassment, and reproductive rights issues, and the causes of the medical malpractice insurance crisis. These lectures since 1996 include:
